—Post-Gazette Photo

BIG SHAKE — Soviet Deputy Premier Kozlov, right, gave one of his most amiable handshakes to John Smoko, left, smiling veteran at the Homestead Works of United States Steel when it turned out Mr. Smoko could talk to the visitor in Russian. Interpreter Sukhodrev stands between the two. Most of the plant's workers gave the visiting Russian a hearty reception. Mr. Smoko was invited by Mr. Kozlov to have a drink, but there wasn't time for it. The Kozlov party swept quickly through big mill here.

—Associated Press Wirephoto

Eleanor, 10, James Jr., 13.

happy to have the youngsters visit him.

In addition to the souvenirs, the congressman's eldest son got the President's autograph on the flyleaf of President Eisenhower's book, "Crusade in Europe."

"We bought the book and brought it along because we think the best compliment you can pay an author is to buy his book," Roosevelt said with a chuckle.

Mr. Eisenhower wrote on the flyleaf:

"For Jim — with best wishes."

les Guards m Peril

ling of 2 American hter Precautions

Nam, July 10 (AP)—Measwere intensified today orists killed two the need of legislation to curb the sending of obscene matter through the mails.

The State Supreme Court, by a 5-2 decision—and Justice Musmanno was one of the dissenters—struck down a law which governed prosecution for exhibition of so-called obscene movies.

Speaks as Citizen

Today, appearing as a private citizen, the justice said he was "considerably distressed over the present state of affairs." He said "The only relief is in the Legislature."

He said the General Assembly must pass a new law "to spell out what purveyors of obscenity cannot do to corrupt the morals of our people."

Justice Musmanno condemned, too, a recent decision by the United States Supreme Court which held that a motion picture which discussed the subject of adultery was not obscene and couldn't be banned.

"Society has the right to protect itself from those who, feeling no devotion to God or country, would in the end destroy the structure of American democracy which is founded on God's order in the world," he said.

Alpern Cites Common Law

Attorney General Anne X. Alpern has stated that the "common law" of the Commonwealth was sufficient to provide the basis for prosecution for obscenity. But Justice Musmanno said "This is an illusion, it will not protect. We need a new law."

District Attorney Blane of with 61 knife wounds.

"I just don't remember a thing," said the defendant.

The defense called two alienists to support its plea of innocent by reason of insanity. They were Dr. Leon Radaker psychologist for the Butler Juvenile Guidance Center and Dr. Frank Geer, New Castle Psychiatrist.

Dr. Radaker said he had examined Alwine after one of the youth's arrests for driving an auto after his driver's license had been suspended.

Found Him Abnormal

Dr. Radaker said he found the youth to be psychopathic, a paranoid and abnormal "in two phases."

Dr. Geer said the youth could not distinguish between right and wrong but that when he examined him last March he was not "demonstrably insane," although having an "emotional unstable personality."

★ ★ ★

HERE AND THERE—— Kenneth Robinson, prominent apple grower of Winchester, Va. Friday was elected president of the popular Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival, succeeding Attorney F. L. Largent, Jr. . . . Attorney William H. Robinson, of Mon-

Mr. Robinson